

English III Standard:

Jake Reinvented* by, Gordon Korman

Assignment: Characterization: Complete a characterization for Jake and two other characters in the novel. Your characterization should include the following for each of the three characters :

--One direct characterization (description by the narrator)

--One indirect characterization (description of one character by another character)

--For each of the examples include a passage from the book. You should have a total of six entries.

--This can be typed or hand written on one sheet of paper. You may use the back of the page if necessary.

Your one page characterization will be due the FIRST day of class.

English III Honors:

Huckleberry Finn* by, Mark Twain

Assignment: Create an 8x10 color map that illustrates the following about the Setting of the novel. Include the following on your map:

--Choose six locations discussed in the novel and illustrate them on your map.

--For each location, include a passage that describes an aspect of the particular setting; it might be a physical description of the place, a description of the people in the location, or a passage that highlights the action that takes place in the location.

--(Hint: you may want to start by looking at a map of the Mississippi River and the area around Hannibal, Missouri)!

--This is an honors level class. Your work should show the appropriate amount of effort and detail.

Your map will be due the FIRST day of school.

Advanced Placement Language and Composition

The focus of AP Language is non-fiction. The most successful AP Language students are able to make connections between texts they are reading and history and current events.

You will use the concepts in this book throughout the year with texts we read in class.

How to Read Non-Fiction Like a Professor by Thomas C. Foster

Assignment: The book is divided into five sections. You are to write up a summary of the basic concepts Mr. Foster presents in each section. Clearly label each section.

Apply: Find a primary source for one of the categories. Read and annotate the text using elements Mr. Foster illustrates in the section.

--This is an Advanced Placement class. Your work should demonstrate the appropriate effort and completeness required of an AP class.

This assignment will be due the first day of class.